

Distribution, ecology, and conservation of Xenarthra in Bolivia — update to 2021: Erratum

Edentata 22: 16–37. DOI: 10.2305/IUCN.CH.2021.Edentata-22-1.4.en

Due to an editorial mistake, the information about Calyptophractus retusus was omitted from TABLE 1 of the abovementioned article. We apologize for the error and provide a corrected version of TABLE 1 below.

TABLE 1. Current recognized species of Xenarthra in Bolivia following Aguirre et al. (2019) with the exception of Cabassous squamicaudis following Feijó & Anacleto (2021). Levels of threat follow the IUCN categorization (EN = Endangered; LC = Least Concern; NT = Near Threatened; VU = Vulnerable; DD = Data Deficient), and the Red List for Bolivia (MMAyA, 2009). Cabassous squamicaudis has not yet been evaluated for level of threat.
